SEWING MACHINES

PRICE. FIFTY DOLLARS.

THE IMPROVEMENTS MADE ON THE placed it at the head of all competition, and to-day it is without a rival. It is as durable as steel and iron can make it. Every Machine of the late Casz-Hardenshe sinuse is warranted five years, and a warrante furnished with each Machine.

The above cut represents the late improved Machine, which rests flat with the table and runs light and rapidly, and makes the shuttle or lock stitch, uses straight needle, and the celebrated undershed improved in shape so as to have a portion of the feed on both sides of the needle.

Kemen, ber the Pact,

Remember the Fact, that high prices (on sewing machines) do not indicate superiority. The combination, the ring, and the m-nopoly, all agree on high prices, which they, sooner or later, will be forced to reduce on account of the unprece-dented rand and increasing sales of the NEW WILSON SEWING MACHINE.

Please call and examine even if you do not wish to purchase. A full stock of Machine Twist Speel Cetton, Oil, Needles, etc., always on hand and for sale low.

halves of some scated and standing female figures. This sculpture is very bold and effective as decoration, but wants the ineffable charm and freshness of the frieze of the Partenou, while in masterly vigor of execution and dramatic force it falls far short of the frieze of the Mausofeum. It is careless and inexact in execution, and has the characteristics which we might expect to find in the Greek sculpture of the Macedonian period, when work was executed rapidly to gratify the vanity of a peculiar interest on these relics of those famous columns on which St. Paul must have gazed when he preached against them, but which local fanaticism, aided by local vested interests, preserved in all their splendor for three centuries after his coming.

The architecture of the Temple of Diana is Ionic. Mr. Wood has very properly selected such fragments as will show what the base, the capital, and the order generally were like. Once housed in the British Museum they will furnish materials out of which, not, perhaps, a complete restoration of the temple, but a new chapter in the history of Greek a new chapter in the history of Greek architecture can be constructed, just as out of the fessil bones of the megatheium an Owen reconstructs lost types in the animal kingdom.

The stones were very heavy, the mud of Ephesus tenacious, and the weather variable; but the Caledonian's blue-jackets have done their work with an alacriy and good humor characteristic of blue-jackets in these expeditions, and by the end of the week the ship will leave this port with her precious cargo, bound for Malta.

HYDROPHOBIA.

Treatment in the Recent Case at Flint, Michigan.

Correspondence Detroit Tribune. The subject of so much discussion, Mr. Burt True, was bitten by a rabid dog last May. The dog had bitten several animals, and was killed. Young True was bitten in the center of the inside of the right hand. Being in the country at the time, it was some twelve hours before he reached a surgeon, who cauter-ized the wound with nitrate of silver. The wound healed, and remained so until between two and three weeks since, when it became irritable and broke out sgain. Soon the first marked systems of hydrophobia showed themselves, con-vulsions, "barking like a dog," frothing at the mouth, and making strenuous ef-forts to bite everything that came wear. During these convulsions, the patient would seize the pillows from his bed in his teeth, and shake and rend them with all the seeming ferocity of an angry dog. An intense dread of water also exhibited itself, the sight of which threw him in the most terrible convulsions, at these times requiring the united strength of five men to keep him under subjection; is fact, every symptom of hydrophobia made itself conspicuous. Brought to Light—The Marbles Shipped to the British Museum.
Smyrns (Jun. 27.) Cor. London Times—
Most people have heard of those famous Seven Sleepers of Ephesus who, taking refuse from the personnion of taking refuge from the persecutions of bad a case similar some seven or eight Diceletian at the close of the third century, fell asleep there, and woke up two centuries afterwards to find a new world well ever since, after consulting the centuries afterwards to find a new world and a Christian empire. Scarcely less romantic have been the fortunes of the famous Temple of Diana, of Ephesus, one of the seven wonders of the ancient world. Destroyed by an earthquake, and plundered by the Goths in the third century of the Ehristian era, it served as a quarry for the architects of the Bycanting city built at Ephesus, prebably

a lifetime to see such a glorious and magnificent sight as that from which I have just returned—that is, the total eclipse of the sun. I have seen many eclipse of the sun. I have seen many eclipses before, but never anything to equal this. I was engaged to go with the Morgans to the top of the hill to see it. Got up at six, and found it a lovely morning. I rode up to Morgan's about half a mile, carrying with me glasses, smoked glass and sun hat. Got there before seven, and found the eclipse already begun. Got out two mirrors and ready begun. Got out two mirrors and watched the hole in the sun grow bigger and bigger. It began from the top, and we all went off to the highest point on the hill, from whence we could see all Ooly and the mountains around. When the eclipse got so far, the cold on the mountains grow much greater, the grass was so wet no one's boots kept it out, the feet and hands grew cold, and with your back to the sun the light over the country was like the twilight or the carliest dawn. Gradually the lower streak got thinner and thinner, until at last there shown a light like the famous lime-light, and in a moment or two that went out and the sun was totally concealed; many stars were visible, the whole country looked dark, like moonlight-the crows stopped cawing, and for two minutes and a half the total eclipse lasted, a sight I shall never forget, and then the lime-light again ap-peared at the bottom rim of the sun, and gradually more and more of him appeared, the crows began again at once, and the cocks began to crow, the shadow was now inverted, and by degrees got smaller, until at nine o'clock the eclipse was over. I cannot but suppose that the scientific men must have had grand opportunities of observation, and that to-day's pencil will carry home

Changing Clothing. . Hall's Journal of Health says: In the latitudes of New England and New York, going westward, the month of March is the most disagreeable of the whole year, with its changing tempera-ture, its slosh and mud, its cold, raw, piercing, damp winds; and although not as cold as January and February, it is more prolific of dangerous diseases, greatly promoted by the hurry of the people for lighter clothing, but it would be a great deal better to wear the entire winter suits through March, and even to the inner garments, except to a less heavy weolen next the skin; for it is only at all oppressive; while the very warmth of noonday makes the raw dampness of the morning and late afterneous special-

All changes to a lighter or cooler gar-ment should be made at dressing in the morning, and if in any case the change leaves the body chilly, or soon after it is made the weather changes to be much cooler, by all means promptly, without half an hour's delay, resume the full winter dress. The old, the young, the invalid, in short all persons of feeble constitutions, of small vitality, should be especially careful to heed these suggestions in attention to which the series of the statement of the series of gestions; inattention to which gives rise to the very frequent announcements in the morning papers, in the early spring, "Died suddenly, yesterday, — of pneumonia," often the very friend whom he had met in the street, or at church within a week, apparently as well and as healthy as ever before.

Natural, Artificial help to the human eye ever known. They are ground under their own supervision, from minute Crystal Pebblez melted together, and derive their name. "Diamond," on account of their hardness and brilliancy. The SCIENTIFIC PRINCIPLE on which they are constructed brings the core or center of the lens directly in front of the eye, producing a clear and distinct vision, as in the natural, healthy sight, and preventing all unpleasant sensations, such as glimmering and wavering of sight, distinces, etc., peculiar to all others in use. They are meanted in the finest manner, in frames of the best quality, of all materials used for that purpose. Their finish and durability cannot be surpassed.
